decision was reached at the conference between officials of the Southern Railway and the conductors and trainmen, which was in progress for several days. The men asked for an increase of wages of from ten to twenty per cent., and the adjustment of some other grievances.

adjustment of some other grievances.

The conference was conducted in a perfectly friendly spirit, and the various questions raised were threshed over so far as was possible in the time consumed. Finally a decision was reached to defer a definite determination of the questions until a subsequent time, as both the members of the committee and the officials were needed at their several stations. In a week or ten days another conference will be held, at which it is expected a solution of the problems presented will be reached.

Fultonite Who Was "Shanghaied" Has Returned.

Has Returned.

Joe Burruss, the eighteen-year-old Fulton man, who claims to have been "shanghaled" by an oyster captain last October, has returned to his home here, and relates some rare experiences. He says he escaped from the oyster ship at Crisfield, Md., on December 1st in a rowboat and made his way to Haltimore, going from there to Newport News. From Newport News, he says, he went to Liverpool on a cattle steamer, and only returned to Richmond Saturday.

Burruss declares he was engaged by an oyster captain on Fifteenth Street, in this city, and was paid $15 per month. He did not object to the fare or treatment he received on the boat, but says he had no liberties.

Amusements.
